FOR IMMEDIATE PRESS RELEASE

TAKE Solutions Announces “eCTD Validation: How Do I Know It Will Be Accepted At The Agency?” Webcast.

Community interest webcast will be conducted by Harv Martens of the ICH M2 Standards Committee & ING America

Raleigh, NC – February 20, 2007 — Today, TAKE Solutions announced the second in its 2007 webcast series, “eCTD Validation: How do I know it will be accepted at the agency?”. This webcast will be conducted by Mr. Harv Martens on March 6th for US and Canadian audiences, and March 8th for European audiences.

“Submitting fully compliant eCTD submissions requires an understanding of multiple specifications, guidance documents and the agency’s ‘current thinking’. This webcast will cover common misunderstandings, concerns from regulators and you, as well as the five key questions to ask your eCTD tool vendor,” stated Harv Martens.

Harv Martens, president of ING America, has served for over ten years on the ICH M2 Expert Working Group. In this capacity, he co-authored the ICH eCTD specification, as well as the ICH standard for safety reporting known as ICSR. He is currently leading an ICH M2 project to study interoperability and compliance (with ICH and regional guidance and specifications) of the eCTD tools on the market (www.etics.us).

“We are absolutely committed to delivering domain value to the regulated life sciences marketplace. The industry feedback we’ve received confirms that educational topics such as eCTD validation speak to everyone’s concerns right now. Our 2007 webcast series has been developed in conjunction with industry subject matter experts to help the industry better understand submissions guidance, avoid common agency pitfalls, and accelerate product time-to-market,” stated Robert MacDougall, Executive Vice President Sales & Marketing, TAKE Solutions, Inc.
